

ABSTRACT

[0044] A method and apparatus is described for remote monitoring of digital processing systems. A remote monitoring digital processing system may be connected to one or more digital processing systems to be monitored. A diagnostic program may be executed on the remote monitoring digital processing system to generate diagnostic information relating to each monitored digital processing system.